The meal was absolutely delicious. The chips were crunchy/fatty/stale and the fish was <sup>1</sup> raw/fresh/smelly. The meat was lovely and <sup>2</sup> overcooked/juicy/dry.

I couldn't eat it all, so I asked if I could take the <sup>3</sup> leftovers/ ingredients/recipe home for breakfast. My friend, who is usually a <sup>4</sup> thirsty/tasty/fussy eater, also enjoyed the meal. We would definitely recommend this restaurant, but not if you are <sup>5</sup> keeping/watching/losing your weight!

Tekst 1.

I had a terrible time. The queues were like in school and the people were almost as badly behaved. There was nowhere to sit so people had to take their food and drink back to their carriage. A lot of people spilled drinks or dropped food because we were moving so fast. I wanted a sausage but, when I got to the counter, there was only one left. It was lying, cold and pale, on a plate. The man offered to put it in the microwave but I decided to just get a coffee and a packet of crisps.

1 The text describes getting food

A on a train. B in a restaurant. C at school.

Tekst 2.

The first time I tasted Fruity Vegetarian Moroccan stew was in Fez in 2007. It was at a small restaurant away from the tourist areas and the food was superb. Unfortunately, no-one spoke enough English to give me the recipe. I'm not an expert, just an enthusiastic amateur in the kitchen but I think I have finally managed to recreate the meal. I used experimentation, memory and ideas from a number of recipe books. Below you'll find the recipe. Please try it and leave a comment with your opinions and any ideas to make it even better.

2 The text is from a

A cookery book. B restaurant review. C a food blog.

Tekst 3.

Vegetarianism is nothing new but it is becoming more and more common as people worry about their health. Some people worry about the health of vegetarians but neither meat eaters nor vegetarians need to be worried as long as they eat sensibly. Many parents worry about cooking for a vegetarian child because they think there isn't enough variety or goodness in vegetarian dishes. That's why I have decided to publish this book: Recipes for vegetarians. They are easy for parents to cook and nutritious and tasty enough for anyone.

3 The text is

- A encouraging people to become vegetarian.
- B introducing some ideas for meals for vegetarians.
- C criticising parents for not cooking tasty vegetarian dishes.

Tekst 4.

We went to the Big Radish restaurant for a birthday treat for my daughter after reading good reviews on this website. First impressions were good. The restaurant was clean and the waiting staff very polite and friendly. However, the menu was very limited and there were no vegetarian options. The waitress was very overworked and we had to wait a long time to be served. The food, when it came, was rather tasteless and not very hot. Perhaps we were unlucky. Certainly, the restaurant is very popular.

My advice, though, would be to find somewhere else.

4 The text is part of

- A a letter of complaint.
- B an email to a friend.
- C an online review.
